

Contact: Pam Perry
Ministry Marketing Solutions
(248) 426-2300
PamPerry@ministrymarketingsolutions.com

October 8, 2007

Handbook empowers parents so children are not left behind

He Is NOT Left Behind...He Is With Me! by Brenda A. Jenkins and Dr. Loretta J. Martin helps to answer the question, "Where do you learn how to parent in America?" This handbook encourages parents, while offering tips for raising children.

Within the first chapter, Jenkins offers the comparison of parents being like a lighthouse to their children who need a guiding light to help them in the right direction. If our children are not directed in the right direction, then they could literally be left behind and "lost at sea."

The second chapter then examines what it takes for a parent to be healthy—not only physically, but also mentally, socially and spiritually as well. Once parents are creating a healthy example for their children to emulate, a healthy family can then be created. The handbook begins delving into the intricacies of how families communicate with each other and the outside world.

With exercises at the end of each chapter, parents are encouraged to learn from their mistakes and empower themselves to make better choices for their families. The ultimate goal is to raise healthy children who are not left behind in the hectic nature of today's society.

To schedule an interview with co-author Brenda A. Jenkins, or for more information about He Is NOT Left Behind...He Is With Me!, contact Pam Perry of Ministry Marketing Solutions at PamPerry@ministrymarketingsolutions.com.

Interview Questions

1. Please explain the comparison of a lighthouse to parenting. How can parents be better guiding lights for their children?
2. What are the characteristics of a healthy parent? How do parents create a healthy mind, body and soul?
3. How is a healthy family different from a closed family or an open family? Why is a healthy family the optimal environment for children to be raised in versus the other two situations?
4. What recommendations do you give for putting God first despite the hectic nature of our lives?
5. Please describe how Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs plays into rearing our children.
6. How can parents establish powerful communication with their children?

Endorsements

"In their book, He is NOT Left Behind...He Is With Me!, authors Brenda A. Jenkins and Dr. Loretta J. Martin challenge and inspire us to do what it takes to trade in our children's downward spiral for the upward climb of significant contribution."

~Derek Blackmon
Detroit Parent Network

"When parents show up, children straighten up emotionally, socially and academically. This book shares some practical advice and keen insights on parenting in the 21st century."

~Della A. Ezell
Founder/Executive Director,
Parenting Unlimited, Inc.

Book It!

He is NOT Left Behind...
He Is With Me!
By Brenda A. Jenkins &
Dr. Loretta J. Martin

Publisher: PriorityOne Publications
ISBN: 9781933972060
Edition: Paperback
Pages: 108
Price: $9.99
Pub. Date: July 31, 2007

www.plpubs.com
www.HeIsNotLeftBehind.com

Meet the Co-Author

Brenda A. Jenkins is well-versed in problem-solving, organizational and interpersonal skills. The foundation for all that she does is anchored in her strong commitment to the Word of God. She is the mother to four adult children and the proud grandmother to twelve grandchildren.

At New Hope Ministry Baptist Church in Southfield, Mich., Brenda served faithfully for seven years as the ministry director of the Biblical Counseling Ministry; a ministry birthed under her leadership. She has also served as the counseling advisor and outreach facilitator for this ministry. As a Certified Biblical Counselor and adjunct instructor for Christian Research and Development, she teaches classes that will build up students and prepare them to confront themselves and counsel others with the Bible as the guidebook.

As CEO of ARIEL Connections her passion is "Providing Relationship Solutions to Organizations that Value People."

www.thebrendajenkins.com
www.Ariel-Connections.com
www.myspace.com/arielconnections

Co-Author Brenda A. Jenkins

